On December 24, 2022, the Rasht Revolutionary Court held the first court session against Ali (Makan) Davari, accused of the charges of 'enmity against God' (Moharebeh) and 'spreading corruption on earth.' Davari, a resident of Langarud, was arrested over protests and is currently in pre-trial detention at Ezbaram Lahijan Prison, Gilan Province.

According to HRANA, the news agency of Human Rights Activists, on December 24, 2022, Ali (Makan) Davari's trial began by the Rasht Revolutionary Court.

An informed source close to his family told HRANA: "In the first week of nationwide protests, on the way returning home from the gym, Makan helped several women in rescuing themselves from the assault of a group of men who later he found out that they were plainclothes security agents."

According to this informed source, Davari's mother, who is suffering from leukemia, was physically pushed and assaulted by the agents in the Langarud courthouse, where she had been to inquire about his son's condition.

"In the first days following his arrest, they promised him and his family to drop the charges on the condition his family would not publicize his arrest and the charges. However, after three months, they did not keep their promise," the informed source added.

In recent months, many protestors have faced charges such as Moharebeh and "spreading corruption on earth," which can result in death.

HRANA has detailed the legal cases of 58 citizens sentenced to death or under the impending threat of death sentence over protests. Read this report here.

An Iranian court sentenced a 19-year-old protester to death on December 20 on the charge of "waging war against God," at the end of a trial held online.

Security forces arrested Ali Makan Davari during an October 10 anti-government rally in the northern city of Langarood.

Davari was accused of "disruption of order, collusion, waging war against God, corruption on Earth, spreading propaganda against the regime, and insulting the leader of the Islamic Republic."

Iran has been gripped by protests demanding more freedoms and women's rights since the September death of a 22-year-old woman, Mahsa Amini, in the custody of morality police. She had been arrested for an alleged breach of the country's strict dress code.

Iranian security forces have killed at least 469 people since the eruption of the demonstrations, including 63 under-18s, according to the Norway-based Iran Human Rights group. At least 18,000 others have been detained.

Dozens of people involved in the demonstrations have been handed capital punishment or are facing charges that carry a death sentence.
